For many years I have been interested in the biology of the desert tortoise, and have conducted research on its diet, distribution, and population dynamics in the Mojave Desert. This research has been funded by the National Science Foundation, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the California Department of Fish and Game, and the University of California at Berkeley. The results of this work have been published in numerous scientific journals and presented at various international conferences. In addition, I have given numerous lectures and presentations on the biology of the desert tortoise to audiences ranging from elementary school children to professional biologists.
